

Commercial law, IP and ICT

A shared knowledge of commercial law associated with specialised skills

Laga's Commercial law, Intellectual Property (IP) and Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) team consists approximately of ten lawyers who (i) advise on commercial, IP or ICT related issues, (ii) draft agreements, and (iii) regularly represent private and corporate clients in commercial, IP and ICT litigation.

Besides a shared knowledge of general commercial law and IP & ICT, each team member has his or her own specialisation (e.g. commercial distribution, lease, trade practices, insolvency, counterfeiting, privacy, computer crime, e-commerce).

Areas of expertise

We work in a myriad of sectors and industries, ranging from manufacturing, retail and logistics to chemistry, automotive, construction, textile, pharmaceutical, nutrition, information technology and telecommunications, providing our clients with a wide range of services, including:

- Commercial distribution (agency, distributorship and franchise)
- Trade practices, consumer protection and product liability
- Commercial debt recovery/asset tracing
- Agreements
- Commercial dispute resolution
- Intellectual property / information and communication technology
